England Does Not Lag Behind U.S. In Prejudice Toward The Black Man

Fellow-Men of the Negro Race, Greeting:

I have not written to you for a couple of weeks because I have been extremely busy looking after your affairs. I feel, however, that you have kept the faith and that you are reasonable enough to consider that I must have been engaged not to have sent you the usual weekly message. There is much to do in representing our great cause in Europe, and I am about doing it.

Change In England

I am now in England, and the country has changed much since my last visit in 1914. I anticipated the change, however, and I often spoke of it in my public addresses and writings during my stay in America.

England has become as prejudiced toward the black man as America, if not more. England has been ruined, in this respect, by the cheap, good-for-nothing, notorious, white American tourists. These cheap notoriety-seeking bluffers have scattered their prejudice everywhere over Europe so much so that a decent black man has a hard time finding accommodations or lodgings in any of the first or second-class hotels. I lodged at the Hotel Cecil, the best hotel in London, for two days, much to the displeasure of the low-class white Americans who were guests there; but my stay there was made possible simply because they knew beforehand who I was. If it were not for that I, no doubt, would have been refused accommodations through being a black man, like any other black man.

Traveling Incog.

While staying at the Hotel Cecil, I decided to make a round of London (incog) to visit other first and second-class hotels to find out their attitude toward the black man. In one day I visited fifty hotels seeking reservations for myself and party. Wherever I went, as I approached the door, there was a sudden whispering among the guests and the employes so that when I approached the clerk, generally there was the excuse that all rooms have been taken and the hotel is now overcrowded. This is the marked change I have observed since my last visit here, because in 1914 before the war and before the Americans started to flock to England, the black man was given accommodations at any of the first or second-class hotels. In one hotel where I was booked by a lady clerk with courteous welcome, I was given by her my reservation card for myself and wife and another card for my secretary. According to the customs of this country, we had been booked, therefore, all arrangements for the reservation were complete with the understanding that our baggage would be sent over from the Hotel Cecil that afternoon. This was done not because we desired the accommodation, but because we wanted to test their attitude, as explained. When we immediately moved away from the desk where the young lady had booked us, an old American woman rushed up to the front from the sitting room and shouted to the clerk in the hallway, "Porter!" When the man approached her she whispered something to him as to suggest that they were about to entertain "Niggers." The porter immediately rushed to the desk where the booking clerk was, whom they called, and the three of them rushed out into the little ante-room nearby. Just as we were about to leave, one of the attendants asked us to wait awhile. In a short time the lady clerk who had booked us came up apologetically and stated that she was sorry but the rooms she assigned us "had been taken."

The foolishness of this statement was made manifest in the fact that we held reservation tickets for the rooms. This is a flagrant breach of contract, as you may observe. I have not had time to go into the matter with my attorney to secure damages and to prevent the white Americans carrying out this subtle design to prejudice Europe against the black man. However, I gave the hotel attendants and the American woman a piece of my mind and in the meantime I informed them as to who I was. When we left the hotel all of them seemed to be quite excited.

The incident, however, goes to show the peculiar prejudice Europe is assuming toward the man in black. There is no doubt that this American, like all others, must have been telling the European people that the Negroes will eat them up, being cannibals and savages. The experience, however, is opportune in that it helps to concrete my belief that the white man's prejudice is not sectional; therefore, we must meet it as a universal problem.

Big Meeting in London

On June 6th we shall stage in the Royal Albert Hall, Kensington Gore, S. W., our opening declaration for justice, freedom and human rights. All London already is talking about this meeting and we are hoping for a big time. All my efforts have been toward this end.

Headquarters Established

Our headquarters is already set up here and we are in splendid working order with a staff of ten.

All members and friends who desire to write to me for the next four months may address me at U. N. I. A., 57 Castletown Road, West Kensington, W. 14, London, England.

Preparing State Papers

We are now working on the drafts of our state papers that we are to present to the Governments, Crownheads, the League and Hague of Europe in behalf of the race. My desire is to see all sections of the race lined up as one to push our great cause forward. You may depend on me to do my part, and I feel sure that at the sitting of our next convention we shall be well on the way to success. Cheer up.

With very best wishes, I have the honor to be Your obedient servant,

Time Ripe for A Student Branch

To the Editor of the Negro World: In your issue of May 26 there was an editorial entitled, "The Students' Attitude to Garveyism."

There seemed to be a surprise that the students of Howard University So unanimously endorsed Garveyism as the solution of the Negro problem. Other students besides those of Howard University enderse Garveyism and are waiting patiently to see a students auxiliary of the Universal Negro Improvement Association.

Much time and attention is devoted to the Juvenilo Auxiliary, a children's to the Inventio Auxiliary, a cantition agroup, because it is hoped that these children, being the future men and women, will carry on the work of the association. But high school and college students are more matured and are studying and seeking solutions of the vexing problem. Secondly, not being directly connected with the movement, they do not read the official organ of the association, the Negro World, but read the various other papers, which invariabily present distincted facts concerning the U. N. I. A. I. It must be affiler Garveylam or studying and seeking solutions of torted facts concerning the U. N. I. A. and thereby blas the students. ## Garvey Reads the Signs of the Times

Editor of The Negro World: Having predicted ten years ago the nement unhaly economic crisis among he millions of hard-boiled and happy go-lucky Negroes of the United States of America through industrial stagnation and competition between the white workingman and the Negro in the racial race for bread and butter, the Universal Negro Improvement As-sociation and African Communities League, through its founder and President General, the Hon. Marcus Garvey, negotiated with and obtained from the (lovernment of Liberla, West Africa, through its head, C. Dunbur King, the President of the Republic, concession of a million acres of land for the purpose of colonization four years ago At the same time, realizing a threat-ened shortage of rubber in the American market, Mr. Harvey Firestone, an American mitilonaire, went out in search of new worlds to conquer, and trial. The suit arose out at a collision of the litigants' automobiles on the West Drive in Central Park, near Sisi Liberia, a part of the "Dark Conti-nent," was found with little ado.

The idea of the "Garvey movement" of hungry, starving, abused, increased and oppressed Negrous of America was thrown to the wind; the concessions granted were revoked and a million acres of African land owned and controlled by African men were given even.

One hundred and twenty thousand dollars' worth of material bought with money earned by Negro porters and janitors and Negro washer-women and maids was thrown aside and finally swiped while natives of Monroyla, Cho, Grand Hossa, Cape Mount and Cape Palm, the five towns of Libers, fell the trees, clear the forest and ploughed the soil in preparation for the first crop of rubber for the American market at 24 cents per day for full-grown African men and

Meanwhile, Mr. King, "the man of destiny," had breakfast in Monrovia and took a "warmip" to Sierra Leone for supper. The trees of the Firestone Rubber Company in West Africa, we are told, are growing very tall and promise to put the Yankes rubber market in the front rank. Meanwhile, the economic crists and industrial stagnation predicted by "Ex-Convict" Marcus Garvey Three-fourths of the Negro population of the United States, in spite of its apparent unconcernedness, is face to face with destruction through a skilltion as a result of industrial stagnation and racial competition as preached from the rostrum of Liberty Hall, New York City, by Marcus Garvey ten years ago.

The Kingdom Is Within, Columbia Class Told

Warning the graduating class of Columbia University against a "barren ntellectualism," Chaplain Raymond C. Knox delivered the sermon at the bacculaureate service in St. Paul's Chapel last Friday afternoon,

"Cribes you are well fortified with patience, with charity and tolerance and the willingness to seerfice, you can accomplish nothing," he said. "But with intelligently guided and persistent goodwill, all things are possible and he dawn of a new day shall arise."

The students, sombre in academic robes, assembled in front of the library and marched in science procession to the chapel, led by President Nicholas Murray Butler and Alfred E. Marling, a trustee. This was the first of the ammencement week events in which Dr. Butler has been able to take part since his recent illness. The deans of the university attended, with the ex-

into the larger unknown. Australia Sets Up Immigration Bar

CANBERRA, May 28. - Australia, like the United States, is to have its immigration quota. Premier Bruce annonneed in the House of Representalives today that the government had decided to place a definite restriction on foreign immigrants. Under the re-striction, he said, less than half the number which entered Australia last year would be allowed in during the next twelve months.

The Premier stated that an amicable arrangement had been achieved with the Italian government by which only 3,000 Italians would enter, entrance be ing confined to relatives of those Itallans who already were in Australia.
